

CONTENTS

Preface	ix
Introduction: Whose Spring?	1
1. Is There Gender in This Revolution?	13
The Road to 2011	13
State Feminism: What Is It Good For?	16
The Marriage of Nationalism and Gender	19
Women's Agency	24
The New Geographics of Identity	26
Beyond Gender	31
2. Gender and the New Text	35
New Generation and New World	36
The New Transversal Text	39
The Visual	42
The Eye of the Beholder	48
The Iconic	53
The New National	55
3. The New Subversive Poetic Voices	59
Sara Allam: Kisses and Loneliness	63
Marwa Abu Daif: Mother and Military	68

Sabrin Mahran: Breaking the Law	73
Sara Abdeen: On the Edge	78
“Without Huge Losses”	81
4. Multiple Patriarchies and One Body	85
A Utopian and Modern Moment	87
Fragile Bodies	91
It Is All about the Body	93
Islamic Bodies	95
Why Do They Hate Us?	98
5. The Politics of Memory	107
The Rise of Memory	108
Trauma of the 25 January Revolution	114
Documentations of Memory in Social Media	116
Gendered Memory after the Eighteen Days	117
Shattering the Silence of the Body	124
Historical Memory	128
Then What?	131
Notes	133
Index	147